THE ELKS HONOR DEAD

Bellefonte and Lock Haven Unite in Exercises.

AT LOCK HAVEN SUNDAY

Officers and Members Participate in Impressive Ceremonies for their Deceased Members.

HON. JOHN G. LOVE DELIVERS ADDRESS

The Lock Haven Express gives the following account of the Elk Lodge of Sorrow at Lock Haven Sunday, a brief mention of which was made in Monday's daily.

The memory of 24 members of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elk who have died since the institution of Lock Haven lodge, No. 182, was honored Sunday afternoon at the annual memorial service held in the local lodge room in the exchange building, Bellefonte lodge, No. 1094 recently instituted by invitation assisted in the exercises. The visitors arrived on a special train over the Central railroad of Pennsylvania at noon.

The exercises began at 2.30 o'clock and were private, however, the room was filled with Elks. Exalted Ruler Clyde W. Shaffer presided and the other stations were filled by the local lodge officers. As the Elks entered the room the Germania orchestra played a processional. Beginning the recital of the ritual the exalted ruler called upon the Secretary, Joseph Simon, to read the roll of the honored dead and as each name was called the Esquire, Harry M. Shaffer, placed a white carnation on the altar, which was a silent but beautiful tribute to those who have gone before. The rites were closed by the officers of the lodge answering to inquiries from the exalted ruler and outlining their various duties to members both living and dead. After the rendition of "Auld Lang Syne" by the entire audience and an invocation by the Chaplain George Kreamer, the exercises were declared open.

The Susquehanna quintette composed of Messrs. David Law, John Law, Earl Harnish, Ralph Harnish and Henry Cree then sang "Still Keep Their Memories Green" in a most acceptable manner. These young men have favored the Elks on similar occasions and not only this selection, but all others on the program touched the hearts of all.

Hon. John G. Love, a member of Bellefonte lodge, was the first speaker and made a lofty and eloquent discourse, breathing throughout the christian idea of death. By living a life of usefulness and honesty he said no one need fear the icy hand of the grim reaper. There is no fear for the future to the man who is honest and strives to make his fellowman honest for he has then fulfilled the law of God and of man. When face to face with the mysterious realm of the great beyond one who has striven to live a life of unselfishness—to be upright and just—the great ruler of the universe will say on that great day "well done, good and faithful servant, enter into thy eternal rest."

He further remarked that it was well to make a retrospect of our lives at least once a year. To annually take an account of our good and bad deeds; to weigh them carefully in the balance to determine whether or not we are living for better or worse. He stated there was no better time than these annual memorial exercises to commune with ourselves and our God and determine to lead better lives. We need not mourn if there was no future. The purpose of life was for the accomplishment of good. Endeavor to strengthen and build up individual character, assist and encourage the weak and irresolute; do unto others as you would have others do unto you; write the "faults of our brothers upon the sands and their virtues upon the tablets of love and memory" and for that was the Brotherhood of Elks created. The lodge of Elks fulfill all the laws of the prophets and of God. The selfishness of man is man's inhumanity to man. In closing he invoked all to live the life of a true Elk; to follow the principles and precepts of the order and thus ever be ready to answer the final summons.

"Come, Jesus, Redeemer," a vocal solo was sung by Henry S. Sechrist in a faultless manner. This was the first appearance of this young singer before the Elk lodge, but the members sincerely trust it will not be the last. During this solo Prof. Theodore Reimer presided at the piano. Mr. Sechrist was followed by the quintet with "One Sweetly Solemn Thought."

Rev. George W. Frownfelter, pastor of the Flemington Methodist church and a member of St. Marys lodge No. 437, made the closing address.

Rev. Frownfelter made one of the finest talks the local lodge ever had the privilege of hearing on similar occasions. He is a fluent speaker with commanding address, liberal minded and with a heart overflowing for the love and uplifting of his fellowman. He prefaced his remarks by assuring his brothers that he was glad to be with them at their annual memorial services. That he had a warm spot in his heart for Elkdom and never had occasion to regret the hour he became a member of the St. Marys herd.

The remainder of the program included the quintet singing "Sweet and Low," the closing ceremonies and benediction by Rev. Frownfelter.

Following are the list of dead of Lock Haven lodge, C. Bruce Garman and Charles J. Sigmund having died during the past year: Lewis Weiner, J. N. Farnsworth, M. J. Weldon, George W. Brown, John Schuyler, Jr., F. A. Bickford, F. M. Ross, Lewis Winner, Jr., R. B. Myers, L. M. Morrison, J. F. Bickle, W. H. Mayer, Fred Jarrett, George R. McCrea, W. F. Elliott, Joseph Candor, J. F. Griffin, H. E. Furley, Lewis Waltere, W. J. Lesher, W. H. Hinkley, X. B. Ringler.

At the conclusion of the exercises a lunch was served by Caterer Harry Marshall, after which all repaired to the parlors where an hour was spent in conversation interspersed with music by the Germania orchestra and Susquehanna quintette. At 7:30 o'clock in the evening the visitors left for Mill Hall where they boarded their train for home.

Memorial day is an institution in Elkdom, and the first Sunday in December has been set apart for the exercises. In 1100 cities in various parts of the country services were held Sunday all joining in echoing the "Mission of Elkdom."

When hearts are sad,
To make them glad
Is a mission most divine.
When hearts need light,
To make them bright
Is a mission most sublime.

From one of our Readers.

The Republican is always glad to hear from its readers on topics of the day especially when accompanied by cash for subscription. The following was received this week from one of our readers:

BALD EAGLE,
DEC. 2, '07.

Editor of the Bellefonte Republican:

Enclosed find subscription dues for your weekly valuable information. In the extreme south west corner of Centre county we learn only through the daily and weekly papers the movements of the public in general. The surge in finance looks like a very dark spot on the financial horizon. Perhaps the dark spots on the sun instead of representing or causing earthquakes are reflections of Wall street and the liquor trafic that are causing so many suicides and the ruin of many souls who are being transported from earth to a warmer climate. Another dark spot on our nations calender is the removal "In God we trust," from our coins they represent that we are a christian nation and a silent preacher of the world.

RESPECTFULLY
J. W. THOMAS.

Fire at Pleasant Gap.

On Friday morning about 9:30 when Mrs. Katharine Bumgardner and her daughter were away from home, their house caught fire from a defective flue and burned to the ground. Mrs. Bumgardner had a small bakery attached to her home and by making and selling bread is the way she and her daughter made their living. The young man that they had employed in the bakery lost everything except the clothes he wore.

Mrs. Bumgardners loss will not be so great, as he carried about $1600 insurance on her house and furniture. It is said she lost a great many valuable papers and about $50.00 in money.

Mrs. Harriet Moore Dead.

Mrs. Harriet Moore of Boalsburg passed away Friday morning at 3 o'clock. She was an exemplary christian lady and had hosts of friends who mourn her death. She was 66 years of age. She leaves the following children, Harry, Gilmore of Gregg township and Mrs. Wesley Miller of Boalsburg. The funeral was Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. A. A. Black officiated.

DECEMBER COURT NEWS

Goings on This Week in the Temple of Justice.

JUDGE ORVIS PRESIDES

John Krumrine of State College was Made Foreman of the Grand Jury—the Roodhouse Case.

THE MOST IMPORTANT OF THE WEEK.

The regular December term of court opened on Monday morning at ten o'clock with President Judge Ellis Orvis on the bench. Prothonotary Kimport and Register Tuten in their respective places. W. H. Farles of Sunbury is the official stenographer for the week.

Various petitions were presented to the court. Among the number was one from the voters of Half Moon township asking the Court order an election to change from a work tax to cash road tax and fixing a date for the election. The Auditors report in the Arthur C. Norris Est was filed.

Judge Orvis then handed two decree refusing divorces in the cases of Askew vs Askew and Biddle vs Biddle. His reasons were the proof offered was not full and clear. Full despositions were not taken and the jurisdiction was not clearly proven. The bar has become to lax in handling divorce cases. The divorce business of the courts is increasing faster than the Courts would like it to.

The list of grand jurors was then called and after answering to their names they were sworn and the Court appointed John Krumrine foreman of Grand Jury. He is a resident of State College. The Court then delivered the usual charge to the grand jury after which they retired to begin their deliberations.

The reports of the Constables of the different townships and boroughs was then heard.

The lists of the traverse jurors was then called and civil list went over.

The only civil case tried Monday was that of Joseph Brothers & Co. vs Lewis Rosenthal. The defendant failed to appear and a verdict was found in favor of the plaintiff for $56 33.

Commonwealth vs Jacob From charged with stealing corn from James Stahl of near Centre Hall. Defendant plead guilty and waived the finding of the Grand Jury.

Commonwealth vs Homer H. Brown, charge betrayal, prosecutrix, Esther Gilliland He plead guilty and received the usual sentence.

The Court having cleaned up all the criminal cases that the Grand Jury had acted upon up to that time adjourned at 3 o'clock until Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The Court appointed D. F. Fortney Esq., an Auditor to settle the accounts of the Register, Recorder and Prothonotary of Centre County with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the year 1907.

It was ordered and directed that the Jury Commisioners meet in the Court house on December 9th 1907 and select alternately of the qualified electors at large of the County of Centre 650 persons and place their names in the jury wheel of said County of Centre to serve as jurors during the ensuing year of 1908 in the several courts of said county in the manner provided by law.

Com. vs J. W. Meyer, charge illegal fishing. Appeal quashed and rule granted to show cause. In similar cases against Chas Vonada, T. G. Wolf, E. B. McMullen, E. I. Musser, John Horner. Appeal was quashed.

Commonwealth vs W. H. Roodhouse and Rudolph Roodhouse. This was the most important case of the week and quite an imposing array of lawyers were interested. It was a criminal prosecution, the charge being "Forcible entry and retainer." District Attorney Runkle was assisted in the case by John G. Love and George W. Zeigler while the defense was taken care of by John Blanchard and E. R. Chambers. It all grew out of the disputed ownership of the Pauline coal mine in Rush township which the prosecutor M. H. Davidson had sold to the Jason Coal Company of Atlantic City. Roodhouse claimed a interest in the mine and last August he took possession of the mine, which was at that time not in operation, and commenced to mine coal, putting up signs warning others not to trespass. Instead of bringing civil suit to determine his rights, Davidson had him arrested on the above charge. The case lasted all day Tuesday and ended Wednesday morning.

The jury in the Roodhouse case returned a verdict of "not guilty" but divided the costs between the prosecutor and defendant.

Com. vs Jacob From, charged with stealing twelve chickens from Mrs. C. McClenathan of Centre Hall on the night of November 15th, 1907. Defendant plead "not guilty" and set up an alibi, Jury went out at 11:30 Wednesday. Verdict rendered "guilty."

The Grand Jury finished their work Tuesday afternoon and made their report which was as follows:

"REPORT OF THE GRAND JURY."

The Grand Inquest of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, inquiring for the County of Centre, in all matters relating to the same, do respectfully report:

That they have acted upon eight (8) bills of Indictment of which eight (8) were found true bills, we beg leave further to report: that we have visited and inspected the County buildings and find them in good condition.

We further report, that the walk leading from the Court House to the County jail, is in need of repairs, and would recommend that the same be investigated and repaired by the proper authorities.

And further we report that the flush out closets in the cells, in the opinion of the Grand Inquest are not in the proper sanitary condition, and further it is the opinion of the Grand Inquest that the sanitary condition can only be fully restored by installing new closets.

We respectfully tender our thanks to the Honorable Judges and District Attorney for their courtesy and assistance rendered us during our deliberations.

Dated Dec. 3, 1907.

JOHN N. KRUMRINE,
Foreman.

Death of Philip Emel

Philip Emel died at the home of C. W. Duck at Gilltown November 27th after nine days illness with pneumonia. Deceased was born in Centre county February 17th 1843, and was united in marriage September 15th 1867 to Jane E. Wiess. He was a veteran of the civil war having served as a private in Co. H. 149 Penn Volunteer Infantry. In 1876 he moved to Missouri in which state he lived until 1889, when he moved back to Centre County, Pa. He was 64 years 9 months and 10 days old at time of death. He was buried from his late residence Saturday November 30th. Services were conducted in the Union Chapel at Pleasant View by the Rev. Piper, Methodist minister at Milesburg.

The deceased leaves to mourn his death, his wife and the following children, H. S., and John Emel, Mrs. Calvin Lambert, Mrs. Geo. D. Keller, all of Bellefonte; and Mrs. Charles Mulberger, of State College. Also the following brothers and sisters, Andrew and Jonas, Mrs. John Martin, Mrs. Samuel Fetters, of Bellefonte; Mrs. August Neuman, of Milesburg; Mrs. John Craft of Yarnell.

Death of Amanda Barnhart.

Miss Amanda Barnhart died at one o'clock Wednesday morning at the home of her sister Mrs. H G. Hurd, at Howard of paralysis. She had not been well for some time, and three weeks ago was stricken suddenly, from which time she gradually failed until the end. She was the third daughter of P. S. and Rebecca Barnhart deceased of Curtin, Pa., where she was born and raised. She was a consistant member of the M. E. Church from childhood and made many warm friends who will miss her sadly. Surviving her are: Mrs. J. C. Weaver, of Philadelphia; Mrs. H. G. Hurd, Howard; Joseph Barnhart, Renovo; Harry O., Whittier, Cal. and James K. Barnhart, Bellefonte. Her brother Warren died when a young man and her sisters, Mrs. S. Orris, Mrs. H. Harshberger and Miss Lucy died several years ago. Funeral Friday afternoon Burial at Curtin.

The Weather.

Lately we have been getting some real winter. The streets are very slippery. It will be to your advantage to walk careful, as by doing otherwise you may get a severe fall. The snow-flakes have been in evidence since Sunday. If you are not ready for winter it's a poor time to get ready.

MONEY IS QUITE PLENTY

Inflation is feared May be the Next Trouble

EMPLOYMENT OF GOLD.

Return Flow Certain to Have Unfavorable Effect on Financial Sentiment.

EXACT TERMS CANNOT BE FORESEEN.

New York, December 2st. It is significant of the change in financial opinion that most of the discussion amongst financial men last week dealt with the dreaded effect a state of inflation of the currency into which it was feared the country might emerge with the passing effects of irrational distrust. The bringing forward of this subject into debate while the premium on the currency was being paid yet and other active measures for relief of the currency, famine being pursued, was due to the plain lesson of experience in past crises of a similar kind. In all of these the first return of confidence and the re-establishment of credit have brought a heavy accumulation of banking reserves and a free export movement of gold. While the enormous mass of gold that has flowed to the United States in response to the urgent requirements developed by the crisis is admittedly in excess of the normal requirement of the coming period, the return flow of gold is bound to have an unfavorable effect on financial sentiment and, and in the event of its undue stimulation by any inflation of paper note issues, which would tend to force out gold, the danger of a check being administered to the recovery in commercial activity is taken anxious account of.

The decision of the United States treasury department to limit the allotments of 3 per cent treasury notes and to accept no more bids for them was the outcome of this new phase of the situation which the turn towards normal conditions has developed. The opinion of the treasury department that the secretary may call in these certificates before their one year period has expired and so provide for the immediate requirement of all bank notes issued against them offers another resource for contradiction in the event of any symptom of inflation.

In another direction it is hoped to find permanent and substantial employment for a large amount of the gold that has been rushed to the United States as a relief measure. The commission appointed by Governor Hughes to consider changes in the New York state banking laws is enjoined to report conclusions by the 15th of December.

While the exact terms to be expected of the recommendations of this commission cannot be foreseen, it is taken for granted that they will include drastic reform in the requirements upon trust companies for holding cash reserves.

Roger T. Bayard Goes to Tyrone.

Roger T. Bayard, who for the past eleven months, has been the very efficient Local Editor of the Daily News and Bellefonte Republican, severed his connection with these papers Saturday night and Sunday afternoon left for Tyrone where he has assumed the Local Editor's chair on the Tyrone Herald. Mr. Claude Jones, the present Editor of the Herald will on the first of January assume his duties as Register and Recorder of Blair County.

We are sorry to lose Bert from our force as he has been a hustler for news having made the paper lively and interesting during his stay here. He certainly has what is termed "a nose for news" and can get it up in good shape. We predict for him a bright future in the newspaper field and wish him every success possible. His old friends on the Daily News will watch his career with pride and with the confident belief that he will make good in his new position.

His place on the Daily News will be filled by William F. Shope, a graduate of the Bellefonte High School and a former school teacher. Mr. Shope is a young man and new at the business but we confidently believe he has the right stuff to make a good local editor and he will keep the News and Republican up to its present high standard for local news.

OUR BORO FATHERS.

Their Regular Semi-Monthly Session Monday Night.

The regular semi-monthly session of the borough council met on Monday evening at 7:30 with the following members present: Kirk, Shuey, Wagner, Beezer, Judge, Hamilton.

In the absence of President Keller the council selected Dr. Kirk as president pro tem.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read by clerk W. T. Kelly and approved.

Nothing of importance was elicited from the reports of the various committee.

The Street committee recommended that a crossing be laid on South Water street in the vicinity of the Steam Laundry and that the property owners be directed to lay a walk on the east side of the street from the Bush Arcade to the W. T. Speer properties.

Mr Hamilton moved that the property owners on the above street be directed to lay good substantial walks and gutters along their properties on the east side of the streets. The time limit was placed at 15 days. It was duly seconded and carried.

The boiler inspector reported examining the steam boilers at the water works on the 28th of November and found them in good condition.

South Water street from Bush Arcade south is to be repaired with crushed lime stone.

The dog question was discussed at length as there are many dogs in town who do not wear a tag. Council is going to investigate the matter and see what can be done.

The following bills were approved and orders drawn:

Block Signals on Bellefonte Branch.

At 6 o'clock Sunday morning the new block signal rules approved April 1, was put in effect on the Bellefonte branch of the Bald Eagle Valley railroad, in accordance with the special instructions issued by Superintendent J. K. Johnston in his order of September 9. In the announcement this week Superintendent Johnston outlines details of the new system as follows:

L & T and Bellefonte Central R. R. trains will be governed by the block signals between Bellefonte station and the "Y," and must obtain permission by telephone from signalman before they will be permitted to occupy the main track after reporting clear. Block stations are located at Morris Junction, office call "MX," and at the new tower at Bellefonte, office call "BF." Telephones connected with these block signal stations are located at east and west end of No. 1 siding, and at east leg of "Y." A telephone is also located at the inbound signal governing P. & E. division trains. Trains approaching Bellefonte on the P. & E. division main track must obtain permission from signalman to pass this signal stop position, in order to take the siding when the block in advance is occupied by Tyrone division passenger trains. "MX" block station will be open between the hours of 7 a. m. and 6 p. m. "BF" block station will be open between the hours of 6 a. m. and 12 midnight.

A Pretty Wedding.

A pretty wedding took place Thursday morning at nine o'clock in St. Peters Roman Catholic Church Allegheny, the Rev. Father John O'Connel officiating. The contracting parties being Miss Mary O'Leary, one of Bellefonte's most popular young ladies and Michael P. Harrity, of Pittsburg. Lawrence O'Leary a brother of the bride having gone to Pittsburg to act as groomsman, while Miss Winifred Harrity a sister of the groom, was bridesmaid. The bride was attired in a handsome white costume with hat to match, Miss Harrity also wore white. The bride is a daughter of Mrs. Lawrence O'Leary of this place, also a sister of Mrs. Joseph Wise, Lawrence and Daniel O'Leary. Mr. and Mrs. Harrity will make Pittsburg their future home.

DEATH OF CLINE G. FURST

One of Lock Haven's Oldest Attorneys=A Brother of the Late A. O. Furst

DIED THURSDAY NIGHT

His Demise Due to a Fall Two Weeks Ago When he Fractured his Thigh.

HE PRACTICED LAW FIFTY YEARS

Cline G. Furst, Esq., died at his residence on West Water street Lock Haven Thursday night as the clock struck twelve. He was past 82 years of age. He is survived by his wife, two sons and two daughters as follows: Sidney D. Furst, Esq., Dean B., Misses Mabel and Edith all of Lock Haven, also by one brother Joseph B. Furst of Flemington.

The deceased was born in Clinton county, on his father's farm in the east end of Nittany Valley, where he grew to young manhood. After he passed his college days he studied law and came to Lock Haven where he was admitted to practice his profession in 1855 and where he has lived ever since. At the time of his death he was the oldest practitioner at the Lock Haven bar in point of admission to that bar, although for the past two years he has done but little at his profession, his health not having been good for that time. A couple of weeks ago he accidentally tripped on a rug in his home, falling and breaking his hip bone, the suffering from which and his extreme age, hastened his death.

He was well learned in the law and a legal fighter, possessing traits of character which made him a formidable opponent in the trial of cases and for more than an ordinary lifetime, he stood in the front rank of his associate barristers.

He held a large clientage and the practice of his profession was always profitable, and being of a frugal disposition, he rested in his old age in comfort and plenty.

For many years he has been an active member of the Great Island Presbyterian church and very regular in his attendance at all sessions of the church until age caused him to remain near his home.

In respect to the memory of the deceased the members of the Clinton County bar will meet in the court room at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to take appropriate action on the death of one of their number.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock from the house and burial will be made in Highland cemetery.

JACOB FROM ON TRIAL AGAIN

Second Charge Against From-Caught Stealing Chickens

HAD BOTH HANDS FULL

He was not Stealing Corn this Time, but Chickens—All he Could Carry In Both Hands.

HE WILL BE TRIED NEXT WEEK

Not stealing corn this time, but chickens—all he could carry in both hands—Jacob From was charged with by Mrs. Frances McClenahan. Information against the man was made Friday morning by Mrs. McClenahan, who lives on the Floray place, at the foot of Nittany Mountain, about one hundred rods from From's home.

Mrs. McClenahan is alone at present, her husband, Charles McClenahan, being in the Allegheny Mountains engaged as a watchman for the Spruce Run Park Association. Some time during Friday night, 15th inst. the woman heard a squawking among her chickens roosting on a tree and in the hen house. From the noises made by the hens and cocherels Mrs. McClenahan concluded some one was bagging the fowls, but she had neither the courage to go to the rescue nor use the defense of a woman—scream. Friday night was a beautiful moonlight night, yet the identity of the man could not be discerned while the operation of plucking the fowls from their roosts was in process. The form, however, was closely watched, and as the woman thought how she had spent many hours and days caring for the fowls, her courage strengthened. A better point of view was selected, and the reward came when the man approached near to her—so near that he was as distinguishable as though it were day light, all doubt was expelled In the information made before Justice W. B. Mingle, Mrs. McClenahan swore the person she saw carrying from her place all the chickens he could carry in both hands was Jacob From. A warrant was immediately issued for From's arrest, placed in the hands of Constable W. H. Runkle who served it in less than a half-hour's time.

When brought before the justice, From claimed to have no knowledge whatever of the theft, but the evidence against the accused man was so strong, positive and straightforward that bail in the sum of $500 was demanded for his appearance at Court, Monday, Decemqer 2od. After many futile attempts were made to induce citizens of Centre Hall to sign a bail bond, From proffered a judgment note in the sum named, and when it was discovered that the several thousand dollars worth of real estate held by him was unencumbered, the note was accepted as sufficient security.

208 Varities on One Tree.

Luther Burbank the California horicultural wizard has produced 208 varieties of apples on one tree by grafting in his orchard at Los Angeles. He accomplished this feat by taking a few apples from a certain tree and planted the seeds of these apples. The seeds produced aplings in the course of time, and these Burbank grafted on the very tree which had produced them as seeds.

Wide Black Silks for Long Coats,

The command has been passed—Long Black Coats are to be the fashion for winter. Good reason. The vogue for transparent silks, voile, Nuns Veilings, Batist, Armure Cashmere and so on for dresses even for street wear, makes the wearing of such a coat essential. Wide black silk cuts to best advantage for these coats. Ready with an unusually large showing of best black silks, from best makers. All of them of unusual width, splendid texture and rich deep blacks.

Black Peau de Soie makes the richest and most desirable sort of black coat—

The Post Card King.

Few give a thought to the great advertising possibilities of the post card both for their own business and for the general benefit of the community of the scenes which it depicts. A recipient of a post card of a town or community often judges unintentionly the character of the town from the kind of a card. A cheap shoddy card indicates a cheap, shoddy town in their eyes. They blame the town, not the maker or the buyer of the card. So when you advertise the town by sending the pretty card views of it to your friends, etc., buy the good work, not the cheap, half tone printings that hurt yourself and the town both, in others eyes.

Mr. Bush has taken great pride in not only getting pretty views of the town and vicinity, but also getting the finest work in printing the same that is made is the world, he getting all his work of which he has had made over one hundred thousand local views alone, direct from Dresden, Germany from a factory that employs over four hundred hands. He has had published 56 different local views of Bellefonte and vicinity and is constantly increasing the numbers and stock. The hand-colored views are works of art worth framing. You could not make a nicer Xmas present to a distant friend than a bunch of these pretty views of our pretty and historic little town, separate or mounted in pretty passepatrout frames separate or in groups.

His line of beautiful views from all over the world are many of them veritable works of art. He will have an enormous line of Xmas post cards from 1 cent to $1.00, about 6000 varities, he selling both wholesale and retail. The educational value of the artistic post card is beginning to be appreciated. It teaches the children not only geography and history but elevates their tastes and their appreciation of the beauty in everything, and it will be no time at all until the standards and ideas will be elevated and this world become more beautiful than ever before, almost begun and created by the now despised and made fun of post card.

Some of the post cards are fine and wonderful creations being made of plush, celluloid and various things to make them pleasing to the eye. Post cards are made to celebrate all holidays, many of them being well gotten up for the various occasions which they depict.

The traveling men have spread the fame of Bush's post card store all over the country until it is now known as the best equipped in varities of any store in the United States, he having now nearly 1500 varities and a stock of half a million cards, carrying out as usual the old adage of Bellefonte that she always leads, never follows if at all possible to do so.

He has only been able to build up this large line at an expense of nearly five thousand dollars by the splendid and almost unanimous support of the entire community and by their so doing they have helped to advertise the town in enabling him to have all these beautiful views published in the best work, he being opposed to having anything but the best for Bellefonte, as he says she deserves only the best.

Bellefonte is certainly to be congratulated on the enterprise displayed which is quietly doing so much for it in an advertising way, and we trust the people will appreciate it and help it along for even greater achievements by their patronage.

Navy Triumphs Over the Army.

Eleven Navy bull-dogs ripped and tore at eleven Army mastiffs on Franklin field Saturday. The beauty and the brains, the wealth and the power of the country looked on. In the first few minutes of the play, the Navy forced the ball over the line. The kick which followed sent the pigskin directly between the posts. Neither side scored after that. It was a hard played game, and there was no trust played to luck in it. Result: Navy 6; Army 0.

Foot Ball Victims; 11 Killed, 98 Hurt.

The season of "Debrutalized" foot ball has a record thus far of 11 deaths and 98 more or less seriously injured players. The season has a week to run.

Compared with last season—the first after the "brutal" features of the game were eliminated—there is no change in the number killed and only a slight decrease in the number of players hurt on the gridiron.

Of the fatalities this season nine were members of High school and independent teams, while two were college players. Three college players were killed last season and three the year before. The record of 98 injured players is only an index to the number actually hurt. Scores of minor injuries which, though painful to the victims have not long disabled them, are not included.

College players lead in the total of those injured, with 51 hurt, and the high schools come next, with 24. Last year 103 were injured and 137 the year previous.

Honey Slab of 250 Pounds.

When the weatherboarding of the house of James Ballance, of Little Britain township, Lancaster county, was removed a slab of honey was found. It measured 9 feet long, was 16 inches wide and 4 inches thick. Its weight was 250 pounds. One swarm of bees located there six years ago, and a second three years later.

What Do They Cure?

The above question is often asked concerning Dr. Pierce's two leading medicines, "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription."

The answer is that "Golden Medical Discovery" is a most potent alterative or blood-purifier, and tonic or invigorator and acts especially favorably in a curative way upon all the mucous lining surfaces, as of the nasal passages, throat, bronchial tubes, stomach, bowels and bladder, curing a large per cent. of catarrhal cases whether the disease affects the nasal passages, the throat, larynx, bronchia, stomach (as catarrhal dyspepsia), bowels, (as mucous diarrhœa), bladder, uterus or other pelvic organs. Even in the chronic or ulcerative stages of these affections, it is often successful in affecting cures.

The "Favorite Prescription" is advised for the cure of one class of diseases—those peculiar weaknesses, derangements and irregularities incident to women only. It is a powerful yet gently acting invigorating tonic and nervine. For weak worn-out, over-worked women—no matter what has caused the break-down, "Favorite Prescription" will be found most effective in building up the strength, regulating the womanly functions, subduing pain and bringing about a healthy, vigorous condition of the whole system.

A book of particulars wraps each bottle giving the formulæ of both medicines and quoting what scores of eminent medical authors, whose works are consulted by physicians of all the schools of practice as guides in prescribing, say of each ingredient entering into these medicines.

The words of praise bestowed on the several ingredients entering into Doctor Pierce's medicines by such writers should have more weight than any amount of non-professional testimonials, because such men are writing for the guidance of their medical brethren and know whereof they speak.

Both medicines are non-alcoholic, non-secret, and contain no harmful habit-forming drugs, being composed of glyceric extracts of the roots of native, American medicinal forest plants. They are both sold by dealers in medicine. You can't afford to accept as a substitute for one of these medicines of known composition, any secret nostrum.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets, small, sugar-coated, easy to take as candy, regulate and invigorate stomach, liver and bowels.

ACADEMY CLOSES FOOT BALL SEASON

In a Well Fought Game With Williamsport on Thanksgiving

The Bellefonte Academy eleven went to Williamsport Thursday to close the foot ball season for the High School team of that city. The day was fair and a large crowd took advantage of it, to witness the one attraction of the afternoon. An exciting game was expected by all who had followed the records of the two elevens during the season. Williamsport High had only lost one game and that to the strong eleven of the Elmira N. Y., High School at Elmsra. They had defeated Harrisburg High School 46–0 and Lock Haven 6—5 and also the Academy team at Bellefonte early in the season by 6—5. It was known that the Academy team had held the "Kiski" team to a nothing score, had defeated the Altoona High School and Indiana Normal and then on Saturday last had played the Lock Haven Normal to a nothing score. Naturally therefore the Williamsporters expected to get the worth of their money when the whistle blew at 3 o'clock for the game to start. At the very first the Academy revealed the effect of neglecting their practice on Monday and Tuesday by the repeated fumbles they made, while the fierce and determined playing of Williamsport took advantage of every mistake and rushed the ball by all kinds of eleven playing until they had scored a touchdown and kicked a beautiful goal. This seemed to stir up the fighting blood of the Academy boys and from that moment both teams fought like bull dogs and gave the crowd all the excitement they were looking for.

The first half ended 6—0. During the intermission Earle Leathers gave the Academy a good lecture with the result that they played foot ball in the second half and made a touchdown through the clever run of Thomas for forty-five yards. Pantall was successful in kicking the goal, which tied the score. Williamsport tried hard to score again and worried the Academy considerable but no further scoring was done by either. Pantall almost succeeded in kicking a field goal from the forty-five yard line. It missed by about two feet. The record for the Academy out of eleven games played is two victories, six tie games and three defeats. The latter have all been redeemed. This is a remarkable record considering the advantages her opponents have in numbers to pick from and in coaching facilities. Three Ex-High school players of Williamsport are on the University of Penna foot ball squad.

A Popular Play Indeed.

Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" has been translated into German nine times, into French seven, into Italian six, into modern Greek three, into Latin and Swedish twice and into Croatian, Danish, Dutch, Frisian, Polish, Roumanian, Russian, Magyar, Portuguese and Yiddish. There are seven or eight English acting editions of the tragedy. But one attempt actually to alter and improve it has ever been made. This was in 1722, when John Sheffield, duke of Buckingham, divided it into two parts at the death of Caesar, calling it "The Tragedies of Julius Caesar and Marcus Brutus," and made many other changes. To enrich this poor play, or, rather, these poor plays, Pope furnished some choruses, but they had the usual effects of ill adjusted ornaments—they served only to make the meanness of the thing they bedecked the more conspicuous.

Full Faith In the Doctor.

A young farm laborer called one market day at the registrar's office to record his father's death. The registrar asked the date of death.

"Well, father ain't dead yet," was the reply, "but he will be dead before morning, and I thought it would save me another journey if you would put it down now."

"Oh, that won't do at all," said the registrar. "Why, your father may take a turn before morning and recover."

"Ah, no, he won't," said the young laborer. "Doctor says he won't, and he knows what he's given father."—Liverpool Mercury.

Irish Wit.

As Sir Walter Scott was riding with a friend near Abbotsford he came to a field gate, which an Irish beggar, who happened to be near, opened for him. Sir Walter was desirous of rewarding him by the present of sixpence, but found he had not so small a coin in his purse. "Here, my good fellow," said he; "here is a shilling for you, but, mind, you owe me sixpence." "God bless your honor!" exclaimed the Irishman. "May your honor live till I pay you!"

The Bone.

"Say, paw," queried little Tommy Toddles, "what is the bone of contention?"

"The jawbone, my son," answered the old man, with a side glance at his wife.—Chicago News.

It is better to fight for the good than to rail at the ill.—Tennyson.

An English Author Wrote:

"No shade, no shine, no fruit, no flowers, no leaves, November!" Many Americans would add no freedom from catarrh, which is so aggravated during this month that it becomes constantly troublesome. There is abundant proof that catarrh is a constitutional disease. It is related to scrofula and consumption being one of the wasting diseases. Hood's Sarsaparilla has shown that what is capable of eradicating scrofula, completely cures catarrh, and taken in time prevents consumption. We cannot see how any sufferer can put off taking this medicine, in view of the widely published record of its radical and permanent cures. It is undoubtedly American's Greatest Medicine for American's Greatest Disease—Catarrh.

Deafness Cannot b

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

You can't be well if you have a weak, unhealthy, tired out stomach. Neither can you feel good if by some little irregularity in eating you have caused the stomach to get out of order. These little stomach troubles are signs of indigestion which may and very often does turn into a very bad case of dyspepsia. Don't allow this to go on a single day without doing something to overcome it. Take some good reliable and safe digestant like KODOL For Dyspepsia. KODOL is the best remedy known to day for heartburn, belching and all troubles arising from a disordered digestion. It is pleasant to take and affords relief promptly. Sold by Green's Pharmacy.

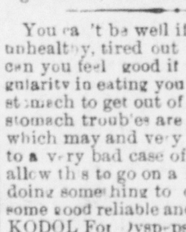
DO YOU GET UP WITH A LAME BACK?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everybody who reads the newspapers is sure to know of the wonderful cures made by Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy.



It is the great medical triumph of the nineteenth century; discovered after years of scientific research by Dr. Kilmer, the eminent kidney and bladder specialist, and is wonderfully successful in promptly curing lame back, uric acid, catarrh of the bladder and Bright's Disease, which is the worst form of Kidney trouble.

Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been tested in so many ways, in hospital work and in private practice, and has proved so successful in every case that a special arrangement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all good druggists. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

Not His Place to Laugh.

Milly is a sweet young lady, usually very sedate and self possessed. But today she was suffering under the stress of suppressed emotion.

"Calm yourself, my dear," urged a sympathetic friend, "and tell me all about it."

"Well, you see," began Milly, wiping her eyes, "papa caught a wicked cold, and mother persuaded him to coddle himself to get rid of it. So he sat, dressed in pajamas, on his folding bed in front of a blazing fire in his bedroom. He had a steaming bowl of gruel on his knee, and his feet were in a pail of mustard and water.

"Presently we heard a terrific noise overhead, and we all rushed upstairs to see what had happened to poor papa. We found that the folding bed had collapsed in the middle, and there he was stuck in the angle, scalding gruel in his lap and pouring all over him, while ma was sitting in a pool of mustard and water on the floor, laughing herself into hysterics. And, oh, the things he said because she didn't go and pull him out! That's why I'm overcome, my dear!"—London Answers.

A Bundle of Blunders.

Don't say that "cleanliness is next to godliness," a statement which would be untrue if it were not unmeaning. If you must gauge the value of this excellent quality quote the original correctly and say that cleanliness is next to goodliness, meaning thereby that, where this is lacking, a clean and well kept person has an attraction and a comeliness only second to actual beauty.

Never talk of "the worst coming to the worst," an impossible occurrence, since it is already there. The worse may come to the worst, as, alas, it often does, but when the worst has come there is no more to be said.

Please do not speak of your "mutual friend." If A is a friend of B and C, A is not a mutual but a common friend.

But, above all, if you would be blameless never talk of "common sense," as though it were or could be an exceptional or rare possession of a favored few. Common sense is the sense common to all, which long may we all enjoy.

Shakespeare Versus Burns.

At the close of a lecture to the members of a certain literary society the following dialogue between a Scotchman and the lecturer was overheard:

"Ye think a fine lot o' Shakespeare, doctor?"

"I do, sir," was the emphatic reply.

"An' ye think he was mair clever than Robbie Burns?"

"Why, there's no comparison between them!"

"Maybe no, but ye tell us the nicht it was Shakespeare who wrote 'Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown.' Now, Robbie would never have written sic nonsense as that."

"Nonsense, sir!" thundered the indignant doctor.

"Aye, just nonsense. Robbie would hae kent fine that a king, or a queen either, disna gang to bed wi the crown on his head. They hang it ower the back o' a chair." The doctor's face dropped, for he realized that his lecture had been given in vain.—Scottish Nights.

Gold Is Everywhere.

Gold can most profitably be extracted from certain mines where the ore is rich and not too difficult to work, but should these deposits ever peter out there is no fear that the world would suffer for lack of a gold supply, for there are many other sources which are as yet untouched, but for working which profitable methods would be devised if need were. Granite, for example, contains an appreciable quantity of gold, and if it were not under present conditions too expensive a matter to extract it we should find Scotland and Cornwall rivaling the Transvaal and the Klondike. The sea also contains gold in solution, and the man who invents a cheap method of getting it out will make himself richer than all the millionaires that ever lived. Gold is also constantly falling all over the surface of the world, blown to us in minute quantities along with cosmic dust, which comes from interstellar space.—Black and White.

Easily Stated.

A committee having in charge a local entertainment went to a noted editor to request him to take part in it.

"What do you want me to do, gentlemen?" he asked.

"We would like to have you give us a talk on spelling reform," they replied.

"Well," he rejoined, "I can give you my idea of spelling reform in one sentence. Just leave 'me' off the 'programme'."

An Ideal Sitter.

A Washington artist while sketching in North Carolina was one day in search of a suitable background of dark pines for a picture he had planned. At last he found the precise situation he was seeking, and, best of all, there chanced to be a pretty detail in the figure of an old colored woman in the foreground.

The artist asked the old woman to remain seated until he had sketched her. She assented with the greatest good nature, but in a few minutes asked how long the artist would be.

"Oh, only about a quarter of an hour," he answered.

Three minutes or so later the old darky again inquired—this time with manifest anxiety—how long the operation of sketching would take.

"Not long," was the reassuring reply. "But why do you ask so anxiously?"

"Oh, nuthin', sah," the old woman hastened to respond, "only I's sittin' on an ant hill, sah."—Harper's Weekly.

The Triumph of Titus.

The total number of those who perished in the siege and capture of Jerusalem is estimated by Josephus at 1,100,000 persons; 97,000 were taken captive by the Romans. Of these 700 of the finest and strongest were selected to grace the triumphal procession of Titus. The old and the weak, who could not be used, the Romans had butchered in cold blood. Those over seventeen years of age were part of them sent into the Egyptian mines, part of them forced to appear in battle with wild beasts and be torn to pieces by them or to fight as gladiators with one another to delight the eyes of the heathen populace. In Caesarea Philippi alone, at the celebration of the birthday of Domitian, more than 2,500 Jews shed their blood in the arena. The males under seventeen years of age and the women were sold directly into slavery. Titus, with all his prisoners and all his booty, marched to Rome, where he had a brilliant triumph in the year 71 A. D. The sacred vessels of the temple were carried before the "imperator," and Simon and John, for the first time shoulder to shoulder, were obliged to march before the chariot of the victor with the 700 chosen captives. Simon, being the real leader, was first scourged and then throttled at the stake, in accordance with Roman custom. John finished his career in prison.

Beer Capacity of a Munich Porter.

An English family touring in Bavaria called at the world famous Hofbrauhaus, the pride of Munich, writes our correspondent. To the waitress serving them the head of the family in a matter of fact way simply held up his five fingers. To the family's astonishment, the waitress came back with five quart pots filled to the brim with beer. The visitors bravely struggled with the beer, but managed to dispose of only about a quart between them. Knowing that it would be considered an insult to leave beer, they called a porter and ordered him to finish it. In less time than it takes to relate it the Bavarian accomplished the task. Wiping his mustache, he demanded sixpence for the "job" and, having obtained the money, instantly ordered and emptied yet another quart pot.—London Mail.

A Waiter's Amazing Wail.

The waiter spoke indignantly.

"Men go about," he said, "complaining of being mistook for waiters, but it is on the other foot really that the shoe rests. Us waiters are the real complainants in these cases of mistaken identity. Our kicks are sincere. The others' ring false. For at dances and balls and such like crushes many a young man makes money by being mistook for a waiter. How does he make money? Why, he is tipped, and all them tips he pockets, never thinking of handing them over to their rightful owners. At every big affair we count on a loss of 5 per cent through the dishonest advantage that impecunious young swells take of being mistook for waiters."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Savage Sense of Humor.

Lecturing on New Guinea, A. H. Dunning said he once offered a native some smelling salts. After going through extraordinary contortions the native went away, returning soon with another native, whom he compelled to make acquaintance with the salts. The two brought a third, and so on until the whole village had been victimized. The savages watched each new sufferer with the keenest delight and took good care not to let him know what fate awaited him.—London Standard.

Ohio's Pioneer Town.

Marietta was founded in the spring of 1788 by New Englanders, chief among them being General Rufus Putman of Massachusetts, Samuel Holden Parsons of Connecticut and James M. Varnum of Rhode Island. The town was named after the unfortunate Marie Antionette.

Old Feather Beds.

Make a thin cotton batting pad—or use an old one if you have it—the size of the feather bed to be used. Lay the pad on a quilt frame, or the dining table will do. Lay the feather bed on the pad and smooth or level the feathers all out so that they will be divided evenly, then fasten the edges of the pad and bed together with pins. Get a long needle and some strong cord—common wrapping cord will do—and tie as you would a comfort, but not too close, about the same as a mattress is tied. After you have the pad and bed tied overcast the edges together and you will have a nice feather mattress almost as soft as a hair mattress.

A Change In Temperature.

"I hear the audience last night was rather cold?" said Hi Tragedy.

"They were at first," replied Lowe Comedy, "but when they remembered that they had paid good money to see the show they got hot."—Catholic Standard and Times.

Not Too Crazy.

Jones, the tailor, is informed that one of his clients has suddenly gone insane.

"Oh, the poor fellow! But he'll pay my bill at least, won't he?"

"Oh, he isn't quite insane enough for that."—Paris Journal.

Answered.

"Where shall the weary find rest?" exclaimed Rev. Dr. Fourthly, with dramatic emphasis.

A short snore from the pew occupied by Deacon Hardesty was the only response.—Chicago Tribune.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The president in his message to congress says:

No nation has greater resources than ours, and I think it can be truthfully said that the citizens of no nation possess greater energy and industrial ability. In no nation are the fundamental business conditions sounder than in ours at this very moment, and it is foolish when such is the case for people to hoard money instead of keeping it in sound banks, for it is such hoarding that is the immediate occasion of money stringency. Moreover, as a rule, the business of our people is conducted with honesty and probity, and this applies alike to farms and factories, to railroads and banks, to all our legitimate commercial enterprises.

In any large body of men, however, there are certain to be some who are dishonest, and if the conditions are such that these men prosper or commit their misdeeds with impunity their example is a very evil thing for the community. Where these men are business men of great sagacity and of temperament both unscrupulous and reckless, and where the conditions are such that they act without supervision or control and at first without effective check from public opinion, they delude many innocent people into making investments or embarking in kinds of business that are really unsound. When the misdeeds of these successfully dishonest men are discovered, suffering comes not only upon them, but upon the innocent whom they have misled. It is a painful awakening, whenever it occurs, and naturally when it does occur those who suffer are apt to forget that the longer it was deferred the more painful it would be. In the effort to punish the guilty it is both wise and proper to endeavor so far as possible to minimize the distress of those who have been misled by the guilty. Yet it is not possible to refrain because of such distress from striving to put an end to the misdeeds that are the ultimate causes of the suffering and, as a means to this end, where possible to punish those responsible for them. There may be honest differences of opinion as to many governmental policies, but surely there can be no such differences as to the need of unflinching perseverance in the war against successful dishonesty.

Interstate Commerce.

No small part of the trouble that we have comes from carrying to an extreme the national virtue of self reliance, of independence in initiative and action. It is wise to conserve this virtue and to provide for its fullest exercise compatible with seeing that liberty does not become a liberty to wrong others. Unfortunately this is the kind of liberty that the lack of all effective regulation inevitably breeds. The founders of the constitution provided that the national government should have complete and sole control of interstate commerce. There was then practically no interstate business save such as was conducted by water, and this the national government at once proceeded to regulate in thoroughgoing and effective fashion. Conditions have now so wholly changed that the interstate commerce by water is insignificant compared with the amount that goes by land, and almost all big business concerns are now engaged in interstate commerce. As a result it can be but partially and imperfectly controlled or regulated by the action of any one of the several states, such action inevitably tending to be either too drastic or else too lax and in either case ineffective for purposes of justice. Only the national government can in thoroughgoing fashion exercise the needed control. This does not mean that there should be any extension of federal authority, for such authority already exists under the constitution in amplest and most far reaching form, but it does mean that there should be an extension of federal activity. This is not advocating centralization. It is merely looking facts in the face and realizing that centralization in business has already come and cannot be avoided or undone and that the public at large can only protect itself from certain evil effects of this business centralization by providing better methods for the exercise of control through the authority already centralized in the national government by the constitution itself. There must be no halt in the healthy constructive course of action which this nation has elected to pursue and has steadily pursued during the last six years, as shown both in the legislation of the congress and the administration of the law by the department of justice.

National License For Railroads.

The most vital need is in connection with the railroads. As to these, in my judgment, there should now be either a national incorporation act or a law licensing railway companies to engage in interstate commerce upon certain conditions. The law should be so framed as to give to the interstate commerce commission power to pass upon the future issue of securities, while ample means should be provided to enable the commission whenever in its judgment it is necessary to make a physical valuation of any railroad. As I stated in my message to the congress a year ago, railroads should be given power to enter into agreements subject to these agreements being made public in minute detail and to the consent of the interstate commerce commission being first obtained. Until the national government assumes proper control of interstate commerce in the exercise of the authority it already possesses it will be impossible either to give to or to get from the railroads full justice. The railroads and all other great corporations will do well to recognize that this control must come. The only question is as to what governmental body can most wisely exercise it. The courts will determine the limits within which the federal authority can exercise it, and there will still remain ample work within each state for the railway commission of that state, and the national interstate commerce commission will work in harmony with the several state commissions, each within its own province, to achieve the desired end.

The Antitrust Law.

Moreover, in my judgment, there should be additional legislation looking to the proper control of the great business concerns engaged in interstate business, this control to be exercised for their own benefit and prosperity no less than for the protection of investors and of the general public. As I have repeatedly said in messages to congress and elsewhere, experience has definitely shown not merely the unwisdom, but the futility, of endeavoring to put a stop to all business combinations. Modern industrial conditions are such that combination is not only necessary, but inevitable. It is so in the world of business just as it is so in the world of labor, and it is as idle to desire to put an end to all corporations, to all big combinations of capital, as to desire to put an end to combinations of labor. Corporation and labor union alike have come to stay. Each if properly managed is a source of good and not evil. Whenever in either there is evil it should be promptly held to account, but it should receive hearty encouragement so long as it is properly managed. It is profoundly immoral to put or keep on the statute books a law nominally in the interest of public morality that really puts a premium upon public immorality by undertaking to forbid honest men from doing what must be done under modern business conditions so that the law itself provides that its own infraction must be the condition precedent upon business success. To aim at the accomplishment of too much usually means the accomplishment of too little and often the doing of positive damage.

Not Repeal, but Amendment.

The antitrust law should not be repealed, but it should be made both more efficient and more in harmony with actual conditions. It should be so amended as to forbid only the kind of combination which does harm to the general public, such amendment to be accompanied by or to be an incident of a grant of supervisory power to the government over these big concerns engaged in interstate business. This should be accompanied by provision for the compulsory publication of accounts and the subjection of books and papers to the inspection of the government officials. A beginning has already been made for such supervision by the establishment of the bureau of corporations.

The antitrust law should not prohibit combinations that do no injustice to the public, still less those the existence of which is on the whole of benefit to the public. But even if this feature of the law were abolished there would remain as an equally objectionable feature the difficulty and delay now incident to its enforcement. The government must now submit to irksome and repeated delay before obtaining a final decision of the courts upon proceedings instituted, and even a favorable decree may mean an empty victory. Moreover, to attempt to control these corporations by lawsuits means to impose upon both the department of justice and the courts an impossible burden. It is not feasible to carry on more than a limited number of such suits. Such a law to be really effective must of course be administered by an executive body and not merely by means of lawsuits. The design should be to prevent the abuses incident to the creation of unhealthy and improper combinations instead of waiting until they are in existence and then attempting to destroy them by civil or criminal proceedings.

Law Should Be Explicit.

A combination should not be tolerated if it abuse the power acquired by combination to the public detriment. No corporation or association of any kind should be permitted to engage in foreign or interstate commerce that is formed for the purpose of or whose operations create a monopoly or general control of the production, sale or distribution of any one or more of the prime necessities of life or articles of general use and necessity. Such combinations are against public policy. They violate the common law. The doors of the courts are closed to those who are parties to them, and I believe the congress can close the channels of interstate commerce against them for its protection. The law should make its prohibitions and permissions as clear and definite as possible, leaving the least possible room for arbitrary action or allegation of such action on the part of the executive or of divergent interpretations by the courts.

Among the points to be aimed at should be the prohibition of unhealthy competition, such as by rendering service at an actual loss for the purpose of crushing out competition, the prevention of inflation of capital and the prohibition of a corporation's making exclusive trade with itself a condition of having any trade with itself. Reasonable agreements between or combinations of corpoations should be permitted provided they are first submitted to and approved by some appropriate government body.

Congress' Power.

The congress has the power to charter corporations to engage in interstate and foreign commerce, and a general law can be enacted under the provisions of which existing corporations could take out federal charters and new federal corporations could be created. An essential provision of such a law should be a method of predetermining by some federal board or commission whether the applicant for a federal charter was an association or combination within the restrictions of the federal law. Provision should also be made for complete publicity in all matters affecting the public and complete protection to the investing public and the shareholders in the matter of issuing corporate securities. If an incorporation law is not deemed advisable, a license act for big interstate corporations might be enacted or a combination of the two might be tried. The supervision established might be analogous to that now exercised over national banks. At least the antitrust act should be supplemented by specific prohibitions of the methods which experience has shown have been of most service in enabling monopolistic combinations to crush out competition.

The real owners of a corporation should be compelled to do business in their own name. The right to hold stock in other corporations should hereafter be denied to interstate corporations, unless on approval by the proper government officials, and a prerequisite to such approval should be the listing with the government of all owners and stockholders, both by the corporation owning such stock and by the corporation in which such stock is owned.

Lessons of Recent Crisis.

To confer upon the national government in connection with the amendment I advocate in the antitrust law power of supervision over big business concerns engaged in interstate commerce would benefit them as it has benefited the national banks. In the recent business crisis it is noteworthy that the institutions which failed were institutions which were not under the supervision and control of the national government. Those which were under national control stood the test.

National control of the kind above advocated would be to the benefit of every well managed railway. From the standpoint of the public there is need for additional tracks, additional terminals and improvements in the actual handling of the railroads, and all this as rapidly as possible. Ample, safe and speedy transportation facilities are even more necessary than cheap transportation. Therefore there is need for the investment of money which will provide for all these things while at the same time securing as far as is possible better wages and shorter hours for their employees. Therefore, while there must be just and reasonable regulation of rates, we should be the first to protest against any arbitrary and unthinking movement to cut them down without the fullest and most careful consideration of all interests concerned and of the actual needs of the situation. Only a special body of men acting for the national government under authority conferred upon it by the congress is competent to pass judgment on such a matter.

Those who fear from any reason the extension of federal activity will do well to study the history not only of the national banking act, but of the pure food law, and notably the meat inspection law recently enacted. The pure food law was opposed so violently that its passage was delayed for a decade, yet it has worked unmixed and immediate good. The meat inspection law was even more violently assailed, and the same men who now denounce the attitude of the national government in seeking to oversee and control the workings of interstate common carriers and business concerns then asserted that we were "discrediting and ruining a great American industry." Two years have not elapsed, and already it has become evident that the great benefit the law confers upon the public is accompanied by an equal benefit to the reputable packing establishments. The latter are better off under the law than they were without it. The benefit to interstate common carriers and business concerns from the legislation I advocate would be equally marked.

Pure Food Law.

Incidentally in the passage of the pure food law the action of the various state food and dairy commissioners showed in striking fashion how much good for the whole people results from the hearty co-operation of the federal and state officials in securing a given reform. It is primarily to the action of these state commissioners that we owe the enactment of this law, for they aroused the people, first to demand the enactment and enforcement of state laws on the subject and then the enactment of the federal law, without which the state laws were largely ineffective. There must be the closest co-operation between the national and state governments in administering these laws.

Currency Legislation Needed.

I again urge on the congress the need of immediate attention to this matter. We need a greater elasticity in our currency, provided of course that we recognize the even greater need of a safe and secure currency. Provision should be made for an emergency currency. The emergency issue should of course be made with an effective guarantee and upon conditions carefully prescribed by the government. Such emergency issue must be based on adequate securities approved by the government and must be issued under a heavy tax. This would permit currency being issued when the demand for it was urgent, while securing its retirement as the demand fell off. It is worth investigating to determine whether officers and directors of national banks should ever be allowed to loan to themselves. Trust companies should be subject to the same supervision as banks. Legislation to this effect should be enacted for the District of Columbia and the territories.

Yet we must also remember that even the wisest legislation on the subject can only accomplish a certain amount. No legislation can by any possibility guarantee the business community against the results of speculative folly any more than it can guarantee an individual against the results of his extravagance. When an individual mortgages his house to buy an automobile he invites disaster, and when wealthy men or men who pose as such or are unscrupulously or foolishly eager to become such indulge in reckless speculation, especially if it is accompanied by dishonesty, they jeopardize not only their own future, but the future of all their innocent fellow citizens, for they expose the whole business community to panic and distress.

Can't Revise Tariff Now.

This country is definitely committed to the protective system, and any effort to uproot it could not but cause widespread industrial disaster. In other words, the principle of the present tariff law could not with wisdom be changed. But in a country of such phenomenal growth as ours it is probably well that every dozen years or so the tariff laws should be carefully scrutinized so as to see that no excessive or improper benefits are conferred thereby, that proper revenue is provided and that our foreign trade is encouraged. There must always be as a minimum a tariff which will not only allow for the collection of an ample revenue, but which will at least make good the difference in cost of production here and abroad—that is, the difference in the labor cost here and abroad, for the well being of the wage-worker must ever be a cardinal point of American policy. The question should be approached purely from a business standpoint, both the time and the manner of the change being such as to arouse the minimum of agitation and disturbance in the business world and to give the least play for selfish and factional motives. The sole consideration should be to see that the sum total of changes represents the public good. This means that the subject cannot with wisdom be dealt with in the year preceding a presidential election, because as a matter of fact experience has conclusively shown that at such a time it is impossible to get men to treat it from the standpoint of the public good. In my judgment the wise time to deal with the matter is immediately after such election.

Income Tax and Inheritance Tax.

When our tax laws are revised the question of an income tax and an inheritance tax should receive the careful attention of our legislators. In my judgment, both of these taxes should be part of our system of federal taxation. I speak diffidently about the income tax because one scheme for an income tax was declared unconstitutional by the supreme court, while in addition it is a difficult tax to administer in its practical working, and great care would have to be exercised to see that it was not evaded by the very men whom it was most desirable to have taxed. Nevertheless a graduated income tax of the proper type would be a desirable feature of federal taxation, and it is to be hoped that one may be devised which the supreme court will declare constitutional.

The inheritance tax, however, is a far better method of taxation. The government has the absolute right to decide as to the terms upon which a man shall receive a bequest from another, and this point in the devolution of property is especially appropriate for the imposition of a tax. Laws imposing such taxes have repeatedly been placed upon the national statute books and as repeatedly declared constitutional by the courts, and these laws contained the progressive principle—that is, after a certain amount is reached the bequest or gift in life or death is increasingly burdened and the rate of taxation is increased in proportion to the remoteness of blood of the man receiving the bequest. These principles are recognized already in the leading civilized nations of the world.

Germany's Inheritance Tax.

The German law is especially interesting to us because it makes the inheritance tax an imperial measure while alloting to the individual states of the empire a portion of the proceeds and permitting them to impose taxes in addition to those imposed by the imperial government. Small inheritances are exempt, but the tax is so sharply progressive that when the inheritance is still not very large, provided it is not an agricultural or a forest land, it is taxed at the rate of 25 per cent if it goes to distant relatives. There is no reason why in the United States the national government should not impose inheritance taxes in addition to those imposed by the states, and when we last had an inheritance tax about one-half of the states levied such taxes concurrently with the national government, making a combined maximum rate in some cases as high as 25 per cent.

To Tax Nonresidents Higher.

The tax should if possible be made to bear more heavily upon those residing without the country than within it. A heavy progressive tax upon a very large fortune is in no way such a tax upon thrift or industry as a like tax would be on a small fortune. No advantage comes either to the country as a whole or to the individuals inheriting the money by permitting the transmission in their entirety of the enormous fortunes which would be affected by such a tax, and as an incident to its function of revenue raising such a tax would help to preserve a measurable equality of opportunity for the people of the generations growing to manhood.

We have not the slightest sympathy with that socialistic idea which would try to put laziness, thriftlessness and inefficiency on a par with industry, thrift and efficiency, which would strive to break up not merely private property, but, what is far more important, the home, the chief prop upon which our whole civilization stands.

Such a theory if ever adopted would mean the ruin of the entire country, but proposals for legislation such as this herein advocated are directly opposed to this class of socialistic theories.

Enforcement of the Law.

A few years ago there was loud complaint that the law could not be invoked against wealthy offenders. There is no such complaint now. The course of the department of justice during the last few years has been such as to make it evident that no man stands above the law, that no corporation is so wealthy that it cannot be held to account. Everything that can be done under the existing law and with the existing state of public opinion, which so profoundly influences both the courts and juries, has been done, but the laws themselves need strengthening. They should be made more definite, so that no honest man can be led unwittingly to break them and so that the real wrongdoer can be readily punished.

Moreover, there must be the public opinion back of the laws or the laws themselves will be of no avail. The two great evils in the execution of our criminal laws today are sentimentality and technicality. For the latter the remedy must come from the hands of the legislatures, the courts and the lawyers. The other must depend for its cure upon the gradual growth of a sound public opinion which shall insist that regard for the law and the demands of reason shall control all other influences and emotions in the jury box. Both of these evils must be removed or public discontent with the criminal law will continue.

Injunctions.

Instances of abuse in the granting of injunctions in labor disputes continue to occur, and the resentment in the minds of those who feel that their rights are being invaded and their liberty of action and of speech unwarrantably restrained continues likewise to grow. Much of the attack on the use of the process of injunction is wholly without warrant, but I am constrained to express the belief that for some of it there is warrant. This question is becoming one of prime importance, and unless the courts will deal with it in effective manner it is certain ultimately to demand some form of legislative action. It would be most unfortunate for our social welfare if we should permit many honest and law abiding citizens to feel that they had just cause for regarding our courts with hostility. I earnestly commend to the attention of the congress this matter, so that some way may be devised which will limit the abuse of injunctions and protect those rights which from time to time it unwarrantably invades. Moreover, discontent is often expressed with the use of the process of injunction by the courts, not only in labor disputes, but where state laws are concerned. I refrain from discussion of this question as I am informed that it will soon receive the consideration of the supreme court.

The process of injunction is an essential adjunct of the court's doing its work well, and as preventive measures are always better than remedial the wise use of this process is from every standpoint commendable. But where it is recklessly or unnecessarily used the abuse should be censured, above all by the very men who are properly anxious to prevent any effort to shear the courts of this necessary power. The court's decision must be final. The protest is only against the conduct of individual judges in needlessly anticipating such final decision or in the tyrannical use of what is nominally a temporary injunction to accomplish what is in fact a permanent decision.

The president urges the passage of a model employers' liability act for the District of Columbia and the territories to encourage corporations to treat injured wageworkers better. He emphatically indorses the eight hour day.

The president urges the states to fight the child and woman labor evil. He says:

The national government has as an ultimate resort for control of child labor the use of the interstate commerce clause to prevent the products of child labor from entering into interstate commerce. But before using this it ought certainly to enact model laws on the subject for the territories under its own immediate control.

Presidential Campaign Expenses.

Under our form of government voting is not merely a right, but a duty, and, moreover, a fundamental and necessary duty if a man is to be a good citizen. It is well to provide that corporations shall not contribute to presidential or national campaigns and, furthermore, to provide for the publication of both contributions and expenditures. There is, however, always danger in laws of this kind, which from their very nature are difficult of enforcement, the danger being lest they be obeyed only by the honest and disobeyed by the unscrupulous, so as to act only as a penalty upon honest men. Moreover, no such law would hamper an unscrupulous man of unlimited means from buying his own way into office. There is a very radical measure which would, I believe, work a substantial improvement in our system of conducting a campaign, although I am well aware that it will take some time for people so to familiarize themselves with such a proposal as to be willing to consider its adoption. The need for collecting large campaign funds would vanish if congress provided an appropriation for the proper and legitimate expenses of each of the great national parties, an appropriation ample enough to meet the necessity for thorough organization and machinery, which requires a large expenditure of money. Then the stipulation should be made that no party receiving campaign funds from the treasury should accept more than a fixed amount from any individual subscriber or donor, and the necessary publicity for receipts and expenditures could without difficulty be provided.

The Army.

The president recommends legislation to increase the number of officers in the army, especially in the medical corps. The rate of pay of officers should be greatly increased, he declares. There should be a relatively even greater increase in the rate of pay of enlisted men if we are to keep the army in shape to be effective in time of need. The president recommends severe examination of officers for promotion up to the rank of major. From that point promotion should be purely by selection. He speaks of the recent physical test of army officers with emphatic approbation and recommends a bill equalizing the pay of officers and men of the army, navy, marine corps and revenue cutter service.

The Navy.

Concerning the navy the president says:

In my judgment, we should this year provide for four battleships. But it is idle to build battleships unless, in addition to providing the men and the means for thorough training, we provide the auxiliaries for them—unless we provide docks, the coaling stations, the colliers and supply ships that they need. We are extremely deficient in coaling stations and docks on the Pacific, and this deficiency should not longer be permitted to exist. Plenty of torpedo boats and destroyers should be built. Both on the Atlantic and Pacific coasts fortifications of the best type should be provided for all our greatest harbors.

Until our battle fleet is much larger than at present it should never be split into detachments so far apart that they could not in event of emergency be speedily united. Our coast line is on the Pacific just as much as on the Atlantic. The battle fleet should now and then be moved to the Pacific, just as at other times it should be kept in the Atlantic. When the isthmian canal is built the transit of the battle fleet from one ocean to the other will be comparatively easy. Until it is built I earnestly hope that the battle fleet will be thus shifted between the two oceans every year or two. The battle fleet is about starting by the strait of Magellan to visit the Pacific coast. Sixteen battleships are going under the command of Rear Admiral Evans, while eight armored cruisers and two other battleships will meet him in San Francisco, whither certain torpedo destroyers are also going. No fleet of such size has ever made such a voyage, and it will be of very great educational use to all engaged in it. The only way by which to teach officers and men how to handle the fleet so as to meet every possible strain and emergency in time of war is to have them practice under similar conditions in time of peace.

The president recommends the increased pay for both officers and enlisted men and advises promotion by selection above the grade of lieutenant commander.

Foreign Affairs.

In foreign affairs, the president says, this country's steady policy is to behave toward other nations as a strong and self respecting man should behave toward the other men with whom he is brought into contact. In other words, our aim is disinterestedly to help other nations where such help can be wisely given without the appearance of meddling with what does not concern us, to be careful to act as a good neighbor and at the same time in good natured fashion to make it evident that we do not intend to be imposed upon.

The president refers at length to The Hague peace conference. He believes it accomplished much good work.

Postal Savings Banks.

The president says on postal affairs:

I commend to the favorable consideration of the congress a postal savings bank system as recommended by the postmaster general. Timid depositors have withdrawn their savings for the time being from national banks, trust companies and savings banks, individuals have hoarded their cash and the workingmen their earnings, all of which money has been withheld and kept in hiding or in the safe deposit box to the detriment of prosperity. Through the agency of the postal savings banks such money would be restored to the channels of trade, to the mutual benefit of capital and labor.

I further commend to the congress the consideration of the postmaster general's recommendation for an extension of the parcel post, especially on the rural routes. It would be a most desirable thing to put the fourth class postmasters in the classified service.

Other recommendations are:

Deepening of the inland waterways, especially of the Mississippi river system, to make them great national highways.

The repeal of the tariff on forest products, especially the duty on wood pulp.

The amendment of the public land laws to make them more effective against land grabbers and more favorable to bona fide settlers.

Retention of the government's title to public coal and other mineral lands.

Extension of the national forest reserves.

Citizenship for the people of Porto Rico.

Freer local self government for Alaska.

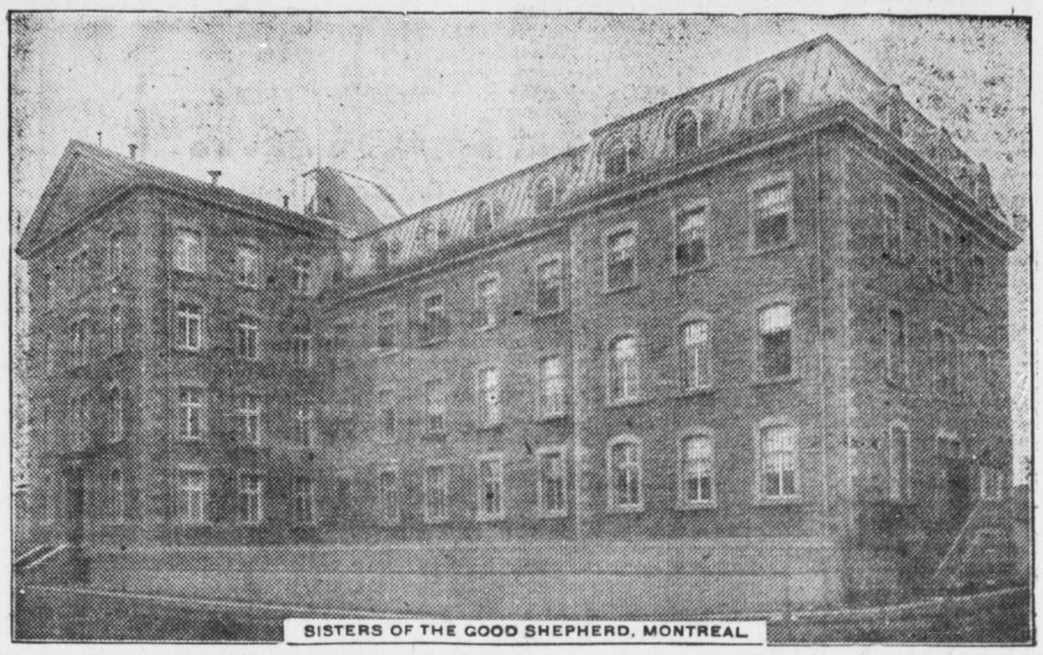
Encouragement of the merchant marine, particularly of an ocean mail line to South America.

Remission of the Boxer indemnity and freer entry for Chinese students coming to America.

PROMINENT HOSPITALS SAY

PE-RU-NA IS EFFICIENT

IN RELIEVING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES.



SISTERS OF THE GOOD SHEPHERD, MONTREAL

HOSPITALS ALL OVER THE CONTINENT FIND PE-RU-NA VALUABLE IN TREATING ALL CATARRHAL DISEASES

CATARRH of the respiratory organs is a common ailment in Canada for at least two-thirds of the year.

This condition is no doubt caused by the long, severe winters experienced in this part of the continent.

Therefore, when Peruna was discovered by Canadian people to be a reliable remedy for these catarrhal diseases, it at once became a popular medicine, not only among individuals and in families, but in the great hospitals, where it was used as a preventative and relief in hundreds of cases.

These institutions do not hesitate to give their endorsement of the remedy which has been so helpful in the treatment of their poor and sick.

Among these institutions is that of the Sisters of Good Shepherd, who gave the following endorsement:

The Peruna Company,
Columbus, Ohio,

Having used Peruna for the past few months, for our sick and poor, we are happy to say that it has given us great satisfaction.

The Sisters of the Good Shepherd,
August 20, 1903.
Montreal.

After a continued use of the remedy, this institution has found no reason to change its good opinion of the remedy and expresses its satisfaction in the following terms:

Montreal, Nov. 7, 1903.
We found Peruna a relief in several cases.
We can say it is a good tonic and we are very thankful.
Sisters of the Good Shepherd.

When catarrh once fastens itself upon the system it becomes an obstinate disease to eradicate.

A systemic remedy—one that reaches every internal organ of the body—is an absolute necessity.

Peruna is just such a remedy. It searches out the cause of the disease, healing and strengthening the mucous membranes, and thus giving Nature an opportunity to perform her part of the restorative process.

One of the many hospitals which have found Peruna of value in treating old and obstinate cases of catarrh is the Hospital St. John, who write, as follows:

"We are happy to tell you that your Peruna has given us satisfaction. Three patients have tried it, one 68 years old, Renoul Dupuis, afflicted with catarrh, is much relieved, more than he has been for a number of years.

"A young girl, 15 years old, had an obstinate cough, which half a bottle of Peruna caused to disappear.

"As to myself, two bottles have convinced me that Peruna is magnificent as a tonic.

"Before the treatment I could not walk for a quarter of an hour without experiencing much fatigue. Now I can walk a mile easily.

"Through these three cases we desire to make known to the public the efficiency of your remedy."

Hospital St. John, of St. Johns,
Province of Quebec.

A later letter received from the same institution reads as follows:

"Three weeks ago I wrote to tell you how satisfactory we found Peruna. We recommend it highly for colds, coughs, catarrh and neuralgia.

"I have used it myself as a tonic with the best results, taken as directed, half a teaspoonful every half hour."

Mrs. Etta Booker, Dundurn, Sask., N. W. T., Canada, writes:

"I suffered with pelvic catarrh until I wrote to Dr. Hartman, and after taking treatment as he advised, I can say I am now cured of this most trying affliction, for which I am truly thankful. I think Peruna the best medicine for catarrh. I never felt better in my life than I do at present."

Peruna not only promptly relieves coughs and colds in their first stages, but is equally prompt and efficient for catarrhal diseases in the chronic stage.

Of course, it is only reasonable to suppose that a great deal less medicine will be necessary to cure a slight attack of catarrh than would be required to relieve the ailment after it had been allowed to become chronic.

A Remarkable Career.

For three score years The Dispatch has been the leading newspaper of Pittsburg. It has had not only local reputation, but national fame as one of the great newspapers of the United States.

This reputation has rested upon quality. The Dispatch is Pittsburg's paper of prestige. The Pittsburg paper known to all the country. The Dispatch was pre-eminent in its field when all papers were sold for 3 cents. When contemporaries sold for a penny The Dispatch enjoyed the distinction of having been preferred at twice the cost of competitors. Why? Quality that tells.

Each issue of The Dispatch is better than that of the day before. Its aim is constant improvement. It is continually adding to its facilities for getting the news. Its enterprise is untiring.

More than this. The Dispatch is liked because it tells the truth without color or bias. Being the only independent paper it is not allied with the political parties or cliques. It tells both sides of the story, so that its readers can compare issues and form honest conclusions.

Unrivaled news facilities enable The Dispatch to print exclusively the best local, State, national and foreign news in all departments.

The sporting pages are recognized as authority.

Its special features and departments are superior to all others.

Its editorials are fearless and independent.

Its editorial page is not approached in reading ability, attractiveness or interest.

The Dispatch has always been read by the best people. Other papers have attempted to imitate it, but without success. There is a distinctiveness about The Dispatch that they do not seem able to attain.

The Dispatch has always been worth 2 cents. Now that all the Pittsburg morning papers are being sold for the same price it is inevitable that the public will prefer a real 2-cent paper that has won popular approval on that basis and that it will hereafter have an even greater circulation.

Since all the morning papers will cost the same the public will naturally see that it gets the best.

600 in Panic When Liner Hits Rocks.

The steamer Mount Temple, carrying 600 passengers struck rocks near Lunenburg, making the passengers much excited. The steamer may be ruined, although no passengers have been lost. The passengers it is supposed, have been safely handed this morning. Most of the passengers are foreigners and it took the officers quite a while to quiet them.

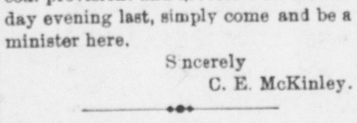
Prof. J. Angel.

Eyesight Specialist.
WEDNESDAY morning until THURSDAY Evening
Dec. 18th and 19th.



TO MY PATRONS: Having become established in Centre and adjoining counties as a successful eye specialist I have concluded that it will be to the best interests of myself and the public to make a reduction of 25 per cent in all my charges. This will enable those who have felt they could not afford to pay former prices to secure proper treatment of their eyes at the lowest possible expense.

If you wish to save your eyesight and money too, don't fail to call on Prof. Angel. All parents are advised to have their childrens eyes examed especially those that go to school. You will there-by make a good scholar and avoid suffering. At the Brockerhoff House Wednesday morning until Thursday Evening, Dec. 18th and 19th.

SQUARED ACCOUNTS.

Also Won a Reputation and Saved Himself Further Trouble.

Press agents, like other individuals, have their troubles, but there is one in Philadelphia who has fewer of them than the ordinary man. Asked one day how he managed so well to get along with everybody, he explained:

"Well, I won a reputation. You see, when a press agent is able to give a man heart disease from which he actually dies his troubles cease if persons have a proper regard for their lives. I was the press agent for a German singing fest. I naturally used the German papers.

"There was one editor who had the idea that he wasn't getting all that was due. Nevertheless he published column after column of type and pictures.

"Afterward the managers of the show received a bill for $820 'for advertising.' They were in a rage. 'What shall we do?' they demanded. 'Don't get excited,' I cautioned 'em. 'I'll fix that all right.'

"I went to the office of a friend, and, going to the type cases, I stuck the finest billhead you ever laid eyes on. I printed it in two inks. It read, 'The Two Continents Engraving Company; John Smith, manager.' Next I wrote this account, 'To Peter Jacob Schmidtheiser, Dr., to cuts for German festival, $890.'

"When Schmidtheiser received the bill he fainted. He revived and sent for me.

"'Fer vot is it you scharge me fer der cuts vot I could puy fer 40 cents apiece, yet?' he demanded.

"'That's all right, old man,' I assured him. 'You might buy those cuts from anybody else for 40 cents apiece, but not of me.'

"He refused to pay the bill, but not long afterward he was stricken with heart disease and died. His executors found the bill, with its balance of $70 in my favor. They asked me what I'd take to settle, and I told them $50. They paid it cheerfully, and since then I haven't had any trouble."—San Francisco Chronicle.

Old Feather Beds.

Make a thin cotton batting pad—or use an old one if you have it—the size of the feather bed to be used. Lay the pad on a quilt frame, or the dining table will do. Lay the feather bed on the pad and smooth or level the feathers all out so that they will be divided evenly, then fasten the edges of the pad and bed together with pins. Get a long needle and some strong cord—common wrapping cord will do—and tie as you would a comfort, but not too close, about the same as a mattress is tied. After you have the pad and bed tied overcast the edges together and you will have a nice feather mattress almost as soft as a hair mattress.

EARLE C. TUTEN,

Xmas is Coming.

Do you realize that in a few weeks Christmas will be here? That is why some of our stores, Finklestine's and Willard's especially, have their stores trimmed so pretty. Watch the windows now. They show where the beauty is. It is time to send those letters to Santa Claus now. You should have a tree for the little folks, they would enjoy it. If you care to have a nice tuekey, buy it now and start to fatten it. You can care for it better than the other fellow will. Those things that can be bought now had better be gotten so as to avoid the rush that comes later on.

Feared 47 Entombed.

Pittsburg, Dec. 3rd.—It is almost certain that the five American and forty-two foreign miners, who were entombed in the Naomi Mine of the United Coal Company, at Fayette City, thirty-five miles from here, by the explosion of blackdamp last night, have succumbed to the deadly afterdamp. This fate of the miners was pretty well established late today by the finding of the body of a mine pumper near the twenty-second entry of the mine, the man had died from suffocation. Thus far two known fatalities have been recorded, both having been caused by the poisonous gas fumes.

There is also a possibility that the explosion of Monday night occured so close to the men that they were killed by its force or the resultant fall of tons of rock and earth.

Since shortly after 8 o'clock Monday night a large force of rescures under the supervision of Deputy State Mine Inspector Henry Loutitt and a score of expert miners, has labored almost constanily in an effort to reach the imprisoned men. The work has been necessarily slow on account of the wreckage and afterdamp.

Toothblacks.

"As we have bootblacks so they've got toothblacks in the Sunda islands," said a traveling man.

"What is a toothblack?"

"Don't you know? A toothblack is an old woman with a pot of black paint, a gold leaf book and a set of vegetable brushes. From hut to hut she passes, and for a small fee—a yam, a bunch of bananas, three cocoanuts—she paints the Sunda islander's teeth a glistening black—all but the two front teeth. These she gilds. And the Sunda islander thereafter goes about with a self conscious smile revealing a truly knock-me-down dental display, a black and gold symphony. It is a common trick among the semicivilized to color the teeth. In Macassar dark brown is the popular hue, and in Japan among the unenlightened classes the teeth of wives are always painted black. In such countries the toothblack is an institution. She goes from house to house as full of gossip as a barber."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

His Profession.

In the midst of our tea drinking in the little Parisian restaurant, says Miss Betham-Edwards in an account of "Home Life In France," a gentlemanly individual wearing a tall hat and frock coat entered and, after a short colloquy with the young master, passed out.

"You would never guess that gentleman's errand," Marcel said, smiling, as he reseated himself at the tea table.

"He looked to me like a rather distinguished customer," I replied. "Some government functionary on half pay or an owner of bonds."

Marcel smiled again.

"That well dressed gentleman, then, supplies us with toothpicks, which his wife makes at home. He calls once a month and takes our orders. I dare say he and his wife between them make from $6 to $8 a week and contrive to keep up appearances on that sum. It is an instance of what one calls 'gilded poverty.'"

How a Flea Jumps.

It is said that a flea leaps 200 times its height, and, while it usually does land on its feet, it often falls, especially when it falls on a perfectly smooth surface where the claws can get only a slight hold. A flea has six legs, whose great length and bulk make them so heavy that they must be a great help in keeping their owner right side up when it makes one of these gigantic jumps, and when it lands upside down or in some other way its ability to kick is so great that not more than one wriggle is needed to set things right. A flea's wings are mere scales and of no use; but, small and worthless as they are, they tell the entomologist something about the proper classification of the insect. To the flea itself they have no value.

An Amusing Slip.

A well known temperance lecturer who is an ardent advocate of prohibiting the public sale of liquors was becoming dramatic over the ideal conditions prevailing in a certain prohibition town.

"I am sure all who are present will agree with me," he concluded, sinking his voice to an impressive whisper, "when I tell you that during a stay of over two months I saw but one drunken man—a most refreshing sight!"—Buffalo Times.

Refined It.

A little girl was told by her mother that under no circumstances must she use the word "nigger," as it was offensive to the colored people. The next day at school she was requested to read aloud about a niggardly man and she astonished the teacher by reading in this wise: "Once upon a time there was a very negrogardly man," etc.

Wrecked by a Whale.

While cruising in the south seas the whaler Essex was furiously attacked by a cow sperm whale supposed to have been the mother of a calf which had just been harpooned. The whale had not been wounded herself, and her attack was very determined. At her first rush she passed under the Essex and carried away a great length of her false keel; then, coming to the surface a considerable distance away, she appeared to take bearings and deliberately charged the vessel again, ramming her with such violence that she stove in the bows, while the ship rolled so heavily that the captain thought she must be dismasted. The case is memorable because the crew had to abandon the vessel, and one boat was never heard of again.—Baily's Magazine.

High Living.

An eminent man who is a strict abstainer from both wine and animal food is obliged in consequence of this peculiarity to refrain from dining out. He entertains, however, an occasional kindred spirit. One such was recently at his table.

"You ought to have seen them," said the eminent man's son, "rioting over boiled carrots!"

One Thousand Men, $1,000.

If 1,000 men were to come in here and each one eat a dollar's worth, I would have just $1,000," said the manager of one of those restaurants where each person helps himself. "On the other hand, if I should feed 1,000 women and allow them to pick out their own checks I might possibly have $500, but I doubt it. Every woman is a natural born cheat. It seems to be a sixth sense in her makeup to try to get ahead of the person who provides her meals."

The woman to whom these horrifying revelations had been made walked away trying to evolve some plan for emancipating her sex from the web of dishonest propensities in which they had become enmeshed. Outside the restaurant she met a man friend.

"I've just been down there for luncheon," he said. "Glorious place; cheap too. If a fellow knows his business it is dead easy to get a fifty cent meal for a quarter. They never watch the men, but I tell you they keep a close eye on you women."

The woman with an ambition to reform her sex looked back into the restaurant.

"One thousand men, $1,000," she said, and smiled wickedly.—New York Times.

Woman's Watchword Is Modesty.

Whatever threatens woman's delicate sense of modesty, frightens her. For this reason many a woman permits disease of the delicate womanly organs to become aggravated because she cannot bring herself to submit to the ordeal of unpleasant questionings, offensive examinations, and obnoxious local treatments, which most physicians think necessary. Doubtless thousands of the women who have taken advantage of Dr. Pierce's offer of free consultation by letter have been led to do so by the escape thus offered from a treatment repugnant to modesty.

Any sick woman may write to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., in perfect confidence; all letters of consultation being treated as strictly private and sacredly confidential, and all answers being sent in plain envelopes with no advertising or other printing upon them. Such consultation costs you nothing whether you take treatment from Dr. Pierce or not.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has been long hailed as a "God-send to women." It makes weak women strong and sick women well. It enables women suffering from "female weakness," prolapsus uteri, retroversion, anteversion, and other displacements of the organs distinctly feminine, to cure themselves right in the privacy of their homes. Pelvic catarrhal drains, painful or irregular periods, backache, frequent headaches, weak nerves, dragging-down pain or distress in the lower abdominal, or pelvic, region, gnawing sensation in stomach, dizziness, or faint spells, and kindred conditions and symptoms are cured by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It is not a secret or patent medicine, against the use of which most people of intelligence naturally object, but is, in fact, the "Favorite Prescription" of a regularly educated and experienced physician in the treatment of woman's peculiar ailments and who is not afraid to publish all its ingredients, as he does, on its bottle-wrapper, attesting the correctness of the same under oath.

"Favorite Prescription" is the one medicine for woman's delicate ailments which contains neither alcohol nor harmful, habit-forming drugs, being a pure glyceric extract of curative principles found in our most valuable native, medicinal roots, as attested by many of the most eminent medical writers and teachers of all the several schools of practice.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For over-worked, "worn-out," run-down," debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequaled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nervine "Favorite Prescription" is unequaled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing, nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency.

"The Blood is The Life."

Science has never gone beyond the above simple statement of scripture. But it has illuminated that statement and given it a meaning ever broadening with the increasing breadth of knowledge. When the blood is "bad" or impure it is not alone the body which suffers through disease. The brain is also clouded, the mind and judgement are effected, and many an evil deed or impure thought may be directly traced to the impurity of the blood. Foul, impure blood can be made pure by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It enriches and purifies the blood thereby curing, pimples, blotches, eruptions and other cutaneous affections, as eczema, tetter, or salt-rheum, hives and other manifestations of impure blood.

In the cure of scrofulous swellings, enlarged glands, open eating ulcers, or old sores, the "Golden Medical Discovery" has performed the most marvelous cures. In cases of old sores, or open eating ulcers, it is well to apply to the open sores Dr. Pierce's All-Healing Salve, which possesses wonderful healing potency when used as an application to the sores in conjunction with the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" as a blood cleansing constitutional treatment. If your druggist don't happen to have the "All-Healing Salve" in stock, you can easily procure it by inclosing fifty-four cents in postage stamps to Dr. R. V. Pierce, 663 Main St., Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post. Most druggists keep it as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery."

You can't afford to accept any medicine of unknown composition as a substitute for "Golden Medical Discovery," which is a medicine OF KNOWN COMPOSITION, having a complete list of ingredients in plain English on its bottle-wrapper, the same being attested as correct under oath.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

The Record in Bellefonte is a Unique One.

If the reader has a "bad back" or any kidney ill and is looking for relief and cure, better depend on the only remedy endorsed by people you know. Doan's Kidney Pills relieve quickly—cure permanently. Bellefonté citizens testify to this. Here is a case of it:

Mrs: Emma J. Davis of E. Logan St. Bellefonte, Pa. says; I have a great deal of confidence in Doan's Kidney Pills, and have already recommended them in a published testimonial in 1897. I told how I had been relieved of kidney complaint and backache which had kept me suffering for years. Doan's Kidney Pills did this for me when other remedies had failed. Whenever I feel any symptom of my old trouble I send to F. Potts Green's drug store for a supply of Doan's Kidney Pills and it never requires more than a few doses to get me right."

Cough Caution

Never, positively never poison your lungs. If you cough—even from a simple cold only—you should always heal, soothe, and ease the irritated bronchial tubes. Don't blindly suppress it with a stupefying poison. It's strange how some things finally come about. For twenty years Dr. Shoop has constantly warned people not to take cough mixtures or prescriptions containing Opium, Chloroform, or similar poisons. And now—a little late though—Congress says "Put it on the label, if poisons are in your Cough Mixture." Good! Very good!! Hereafter for this very reason mothers, and others, should insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. No poison marks on Dr. Shoop's labels—and none in the medicine, else it must by law be on the label. And it's not only safe, but is said to be by those that know it best, a truly remarkable cough remedy. Take no chance then, particularly with your children. Insist on having Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. Compare carefully the Dr. Shoop package with others and note the difference. No poison marks there! You can always be on the safe side by demanding

ANXIOUS WAGNER.

The First Performance of "Rienzi" at Dresden.

In Ludwig Frankenstein's Wagner year book Gustav Kletz tells this story in connection with the first performance of "Rienzi" at Dresden: "On the day of the first performance Wagner asked me to meet him in front of the theater after the box office had been opened, so that he could give me and my friend Schuster, the butcher, tickets for the performance. Wagner was in a state of great excitement, and when he gave me the two tickets Heine whispered to me, 'Take some one with good big hands with you.' He watched the people as they came toward the theater, and every time one went in he would make some remark to his wife which showed his satisfaction. I had to go within, but I shall never forget the childish joy of the composer when he saw groups enter the house and the disappointment when others passed the open doors. I thought of it even that evening when the enthusiasm was the greatest. How happy Wagner and his wife must have been at the following two performances, when the house was so filled that even his relatives, who had come to Dresden for that purpose, could not be admitted to the theater!"

THE DESERT SANDS.

Why the Arabs of Sahara Lose the Use of Their Eyes.

"I shall winter in the Sahara," said a traveling man. "With a caravan I shall traverse under a blinding sun and an endless plain of snow white sand, but none of my Mohammedan attendants will wear any kind of shade over his eyes.

"Against that dazzling glare the backs of their necks will be swathed in white linen, and even their ears will be protected. Nothing, though, will keep the sun out of their faces.

"Wondering about this, I said one day to the kaid of an Algerian village:

"'Why don't you Arabs wear a cap of some sort? You live in the world's worst sun glare, but neither fez nor turban under any circumstances has a peak.'

"The Koran,' the kaid answered, 'forbids all true believers to shade their eyes. Obeying the Koran implicitly, we dwellers in the desert avoid like poison brims to our headgear. In consequence there is more blindness among us than among any other people in the world.'"—Los Angeles Times.

A Real "Hoss" Race.

If you would see a horse strapped, booted, braced and geared to the limit you must seek such a track as you see at the old time country fair. Here comes an awkward flea bitten gray which never went under 2:50 in his life. He is hobbled and checked and goggled and hitched up sidewise, lengthwise and crosswise until there is more harness than horse. You wonder how his driver ever got him into this rigging and how he will get him out again without cutting him free with a jackknife. A farmer with a gray beard and twinkling eye observes to his neighbor:

"Last time John Martin had that plug out on the road I told him he had the old cripple overloaded with fust aids to the injured. Them straps that was cal'lated to hoist up his knees must ha' pulled too tight, and the crittur was yanked clean off the ground. What John was gettin' ready for was a race for flyin' machines, not a hoss trot."—David Lansing in Outing Magazine.

Dina Moe and Dina Mite.

Mr. Cracker, a young colored gentleman of our city, had just obtained employment in one of our department stores as an experienced porter, but after a short time proved to be unfit for the position. Being fired, he thereby gained the nickname of Fire Cracker. Fire Cracker was deeply in love with a young woman of his own race by the name of Miss Moe and after a short acquaintance found that her surname was Dina. He went to Dina Moe and said:

"Dina Moe, does you lub me?"

She quickly replied, "No."

Not being disheartened and at the same time remembering the motto he learned at school, "If at first you don't succeed try, try again," he went to Dina Moe again and said:

"Dina Moe, could you learn to lub me?"

Dina this time rolled the white of her eyes and, looking Fire Cracker in the face, answered:

"Dina—Mite!"—Judge's Library.

Snapdragon Seed Pods.

The antirrhinum, or snapdragon, is one of the old fashioned garden flowers known by every one. Although it is a visitor from southern Europe, it has been here so long that it has become naturalized. When we say "lion's mouth," "frog's mouth," "calf's mouth," "rabbit's mouth," we mean snapdragon, all these names being suggested by its grotesque masklike corolla. But there is something still more grotesque if we will wait till the seed time and gather the dried, brown skeleton of the seed pod. Look at them sideways, under a bright lamplight if possible, and you will find they have quite a resemblance to a rhinoceros. Remove the calyx and the little horns on the nose and look at them from the front, and they have a still more striking resemblance to human skulls, and by turning them about you get all sorts of queer expressions on the grinning mouth.—St. Nicholas.

Hurry.

To our own age belongs the credit of having raised hurry from the degraded position of a disease to that of a commercial process. Formerly hurry simply brought people to an early grave, with nothing to show for it, whereas now it is become the means of transforming peace of mind, which is a solecism, to say the best of it, into ready money. Hurry has grown to be a great fact in life. Even the fashions take account of it until women are found doing up their hair in such a way that they may go the speed limit without fear of its coming down. And the best of hurry is that it is its own sufficient justification. Nobody expects hurry to have any particular reason behind it any more.—R. B. in New York Life.

Excusable.

"I suppose," remarked the coy widow, "that you are not an advocate of early marriage?"

"Oh, yes, I am," replied the scanty haired bachelor.

"Then," continued the c. w., "why is it you are still a bachelor?"

"That's quite another matter," answered the bachelor. "The only marriages I believe in are early ones, because there is some excuse for youthful follies."—Chicago News.

Not His Usual Brand.

He was a waif from the slums, having his first experience of the country. They gave him a new laid egg at breakfast as a great treat, but after one spoonful he put it quietly aside and devoted himself to the bread and butter.

"Why, Pete," exclaimed the matron in charge, "don't you like your egg?"

"No, ma'am," he replied deprecatingly. "It don't seem to have no smell nor taste."—Pearson's Weekly.

He Sure Was a Man!

When William Allen rose up in the early seventies and surprised the country by being elected governor of Ohio on the Democratic ticket one of the obstacles he triumphed over was the charge of being an old man. He addressed a great meeting at Mozart hall in Cincinnati the night following the day in which this ill advised charge had been brought against him by a responsible Republican leader. Strong, vigorous and well preserved as he was and retaining unbroken that quality of voice which had designated him as "Foghorn Allen" when he was in the senate, he was still politician enough to use it for all it was worth to him. After stating the charge in all its heinousness he straightened himself to his full height of more than six feet and, beginning in a loud voice, asked, "Am I a man?" The next question was in a voice pitched a scale higher and asked, "Do I look like a man?" But the third, in which he put out all of his tremendous vocal power, thundered to shake the roof in roaring, "Do I talk like a man?" The audience was thrilled. Such high physical power in a man of that age appealed to it irresistibly.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Fascination of Burglary.

"My champion burglar," said Mr. Holmes, the police court missionary, "is a bookbinder by trade, who has been in jail on and off for half a century."

Mr. Holmes' ramifications with this chronic breaker of the law constitute an instructive scene from his work. He behaved to the erring bookbinder quite as a brother; the man had the entree of the house and enjoyed the friendship of the family. How was he in the habit of repaying this hospitality? By going out to burgle. Twice Mr. Holmes set him up, but in vain. The only charm that life has for this extraordinary being is the opportunities it vouchsafes for committing burglary.

"Why on earth don't you leave off burglary?" Mr. Holmes asked him once. "Mr. Holmes," was his reply, "there's no fascination in the world to equal it. The silence of the night, the element of danger, the need of keeping every sense on the alert—it's grand."—Cassell's Journal.

Economical.

"I believe I have found the prize woman economist," said an east side baker the other day. "She has just moved into my neighborhood, and I understand the family is by no means poor. The wife came into my place Monday and bought a dozen small cakes. I supposed they were for tea that evening. Imagine my astonishment when she came back Friday evening carrying a small paper sack, from the depths of which she carefully drew forth three of the identical cakes I had sold her four days before. Nodding her head toward them, as she set them down on the counter before me, she said sweetly, 'Won't you please exchange these for some fresh ones?' at the same time indicating a batch that I had brought from the oven not half an hour before."

"Well, what did you do?" asked the baker's sympathetic friend.

"Do? I gave her three of the fresh ones. I think I must have been mesmerized. Next thing I know she will be bringing back the bread crusts to have new loaves put inside them."—Columbus Dispatch.

A Clay Pipe Trick.

The ordinary clay pipe has under the bowl a projection or heel which it would seem impossible to break from the opposite side of an ordinary table without injuring the bowl or breaking the stem. Yet it can be done with ease after two or three attempts. Break off a piece of the stem—about a couple of inches will do—and place it on the table so that it projects a little over the edge. Ask a friend to hold the pipe obliquely, heel upward and the bowl higher than the end of the stem. He can do this by inserting his little finger in the bowl. Now get your piece in proper line with the stem of the pipe and strike it forcibly and well with the palm of your hand. The piece will fly across the table along the stem and break the heel clean off.

This seems amazing at first sight, but any one with a "straight eye" can do it with very little practice.

The Men's Meeting in the Court House.

On Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock the Young Men's Christian Association held a meeting for men only in the Court house. It was well attended and the exercises proved both interesting and helpful. The meeting was presided over by Secretary C. N. Meserve. The musical program was very good, there being sacred music on the phonograph, which was kindly loaned the Y. M. C. A., by G. W. Hall & Co. Then there was an inspiring song service of good old fashioned hymns, followed by the singing of several selections by the Home talent quartette, composed of Rev. J. A. Platts, Russell Blair, Henry Brown and J. C. Meyer. Last but not least Christy Smith's orchestra furnished some delightful music of a sacred character,

The address of the afternoon was delivered by Dr. J. Allison Platts, of the Presbyterian church, who made an earnest and eloquent address which could not help but touch a responsive chord in the hearts of his hearers.

Servant all of her Life, Leaves $8,000.

Miss Elizabeth Ann Robbins, 60 years old, after life long service as a servant, died at Greenford two weeks ago leaving a fortune of over $8,000. She had no kin. She had saved the entire sum out of her scant wages.

In her will the estate is bequeathed to the Methodist church at Washingtonville, and the woman provided that the bodies of her dead parents, now buried in the Methodist church burying ground at Washingtonville, Ohio, shall be removed to Salem, Ohio, where she was buried.

The testator also directs in the will that any who have rendered service or care during her illnes and have not been already rewarded for such shall be well paid for their services by the executor.

It is a well known fact that persons living in pine forests do not suffer from kidney disease. One dose of Pineules at night usually relieves backache. 30 days' treatment $1.00. Your money refunded if not satisfied. Sold by Krumrines Drug Store.

A BEAUTIFUL YOUNG LIFE ENDED

Miss Bettie Seibert Summond to that Home in Glory.

When the sad news was circulated through the town that Bettie Seibert was dead it caused a general feeling of sadness to prevail. The news was a shock to a great many of the young ladies nearest friends as she was seen out walking only a few days ago.

Bettie Seibert was a young lady with many excellent qualities. She was a very bright student in school and would have graduated this coming June. She was considered a very charming young lady among her class-mates and was loved and respected by everyone. She was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Bellefonte and was always active in every department of the church work.

Bettie Seibert was 16 years of age the 21st day of September. She passed into eternity at 3 o'clock Friday morning, the cause of her death was diabetus. She was the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Seibert who with their son Clair mourn the young lady's death. The funeral occurred on Monday afternoon at 2:30. Rev. James B. Stein the young lady's pastor officiating.

A great many of the members of the high school were in evidence. Six boys from her class bore the coffin to the hearses The coffin was literally covered with flowers, and the members of the high school were not the only ones there.

Betty "slept" beneath the flag of their class. At the side of the coffin were many flowers.

Miss Elizabeth Barnhart Dead.

Friday morning at 9:30 Miss Elizabeth Barnhart a very highly respected maiden lady passed away at her home on East Howard street. Miss Barnhart was about 77 years of age and has been in feeble health lately. Since her sister Miss Sarah and brother Philip died she has not been very well and on Wednesday she suffered a stroke of paralysis and death ended her life this morning at the above mentioned time. Miss Barnhart was an earnest Christian lady and for years has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church of Bellefonte. Funeral Sunday afternoon at 3:30.

Thaw Trial Set for January 6.

New York, Dec. 3.—The trial of Harry K. Thaw was set by Justice Dowling Monday for January 6, on motion of District Attorney Jerome.

Evelyn Thaw was the only member of the family in court when the case was called. Harry was not brought into court but stood in the doorway leading to the pen under guard of the deputies where he could hear all that was said. Only Dan O'Reilly and Russell Peabody were present of the former array of counsel. Martin W. Littleton was substituted for the rest.

Samuel Ralston Dead

Samuel Ralston a well known citizen of College township died Friday morning at 1 o'clock, the cause of his death was due to heart trouble. He was 72 years of age and leaves a wife and four children.

Horse Fell.

At Betty Seibert's funeral Monday a horse driven by David Stuart slipped and fell shortly after leaving the home of the deceased. It created some excitement for awhile but did not result in any injuries to the horse.
